MAJOR G. H. SALTMARSH
Junior Major, 101st Battalion, W.L.I.

History of the 101st Overseas Battalion, W.L.I.

THE organization of a Battalion for Overseas Service in the Canadian Expeditionary Force has become such an everyday occurrence and a recital of its various phases, the training and gradual progress towards efficiency, has become so familiar to the general public, that the history of the 101st Overseas Battalion would be a mere repetition of facts and figures familiar to the great majority of people. There is a certain personality identified with every battalion, which is judged by the man on the street from his personal contact with its various officers and men. The personality of a commanding officer is invariably reflected in that of his battalion, and this holds true in a very marked degree with that of the 101st.

Lieut.-Col. D. McLean was born on January 4th, 1868, in what was then known as "The Old Scotch Block," County of Halton, Ontario, and was educated at Georgetown. The stern discipline of the old-fashioned Scotch people laid the foundations for the development of those characteristics which have become a part of his nature, namely, self-reliance and power of organization. We are not so much interested in his public activities as City Councillor or as Member of the Provincial Parliament as in those connected with his military career.

His first appearance in public life as a soldier was when he organized and subsequently commanded the 106th Winnipeg

Light Infantry in April, 1912, and to use the Colonel's own words, "The Regiment was born on the prairie and cradled in a five-roomed cottage." At the outbreak of the war his telegram to the Minister of Militia at Ottawa, placing himself and the services of the Regiment at the disposal of the Dominion Government, was one of the first to reach the Capital. His offer was eagerly accepted, and within a few days the 106th Winnipeg Light Infantry was on its way to the overseas training camp stationed at Valcartier. The reorganization of the Expeditionary Force there necessitated the losing of the identity of the 106th W.L.I., which was finally absorbed into the 10th Battalion of the Canadian Expeditionary Force. Lieut.-Col. McLean returned to Winnipeg, reorganized the 106th Regiment, W.L.I., and was immediately interested in sending out drafts of double companies, with their full complements of officers, to various units being organized in the City of Winnipeg. On June 1st, 1915, he accepted the appointment of second in command of the 61st Overseas Battalion, and his strenuous efforts and powers of organization stood him in good stead, in making the 61st one of the finest battalions that has ever left Winnipeg. In November, 1915, Lieut.-Col. McLean was again called upon to organize another overseas battalion, which was given the number 101st.

The selection of officers for the 101st Overseas Battalion was one of long and serious consideration on the part of Lieut.-Col. McLean, and his judgment of men was characterized in his choice and selection of the second in command, namely, Major Alex. Grant, of the 106th Winnipeg Light Infantry, who was for the previous twelve years employed by the Manitoba Government Telephones, and left the position of superintendent to join the C.E.F. His military experience was first gained by serving three years with the 1st V.B. Cameron Highlanders, and he subsequently saw active service with Lord Lovat's Scouts during the South African War, being attached to the staff as Signaller. On the mobilization of the 61st Overseas Battalion, he accepted the appointment of Company Commander, which he held until transferred to the 101st Overseas Battalion as second in command. Major Grant's military experience has been extremely valuable in the organization of the 101st Overseas Battalion. The responsibility of organizing the recruiting campaign, which proved to be one of the most successful in the City of Winnipeg, stands to his credit. The formation of the brass and bugle bands of the Battalion, which are now complete in every detail, has been entirely due to his forethought and administrative abilities. Major Grant is a native of Sutherlandshire, Scotland. He was born in 1882, and was educated at Inverness High School and McBain's College. His services in South Africa won him the Queen's medal with five bars. He was also connected with the 34th Fort Garry Horse, and was for a considerable time company commander of the South African Veterans' Association in Winnipeg.

The Junior Major of the Battalion, Major G. H. Saltmarsh, is also an officer of wide military experience, and has had a varied and interesting career as a soldier. He is a native of Dresden, Staffordshire, England, and received his education at Portsmouth (England), Dublin (Ireland) and King's College (London). His early military training commenced on the famous training grounds at Aldershot, England, followed by many years of service in the Imperial Army. In October, 1914, he was appointed Lieutenant while at Valcartier, and spent five months there and at Salisbury Plains. While at Valcartier he was appointed Assistant Adjutant of the 106th W.L.I., and subsequently became Adjutant of the 45th Overseas Battalion. On November 29th, 1915, he was appointed Captain and Adjutant of the 101st, and on January 9th, 1916, appeared in Battalion Orders as Junior Major. The present efficient state of the interior economy of the Battalion is the result of his many soldierly abilities.

It is interesting to note that three out of the four Company Commanders are Winnipeg boys.

Major R. N. Munroe, Officer Commanding No. 1 Company, is a product of the soil, being a descendant of those hardy Scotch pioneers known in history as "Lord Selkirk's Settlers." He was born at High Bluff, Manitoba, and received his education at St. John's College and Manitoba University. Major Munroe for some time was connected with the 61st Overseas Battalion, and on the organization of the 101st he was appointed Captain and subsequently promoted to his present rank. He has a wide reputation as a hockey player, and is well known to the devotees of that sport under the pseudonym of "Dunny" Munroe.

Major F. E. Emery, Officer Commanding No. 2 Company, is an American by birth. He was born at Chatfield, Minn., and was educated in St. Paul, Minn. He received his commission as Lieutenant in the Winnipeg Light Infantry in September, 1915. In private life Major Emery was assistant chief engineer for the Manitoba Bridge and Iron Works. Last June he was engaged as assistant inspector for arms and ammunition in the Western District, and held that position until he joined the 101st.

Major J. A. McEwen, Officer Commanding No. 3 Company, is a native of Winnipeg, and has lived in this city continuously. In August, 1914, he joined the 79th Cameron Highlanders, and in October of the same year transferred to the 27th Overseas Battalion. In April, 1915, on the request of Col. Corelli, he took his commission in the 18th Army Service Corps. In June, 1915, he transferred to the 61st Overseas Battalion, and in January, 1916, was transferred to the 101st Overseas Battalion as Captain and Adjutant, which position he ably filled until a short time ago, when he was transferred to No. 3 Company as Major.

Major C. N. Jamieson, Officer Commanding No. 4 Company, is also a native of Winnipeg, born in 1889, and a lawyer by profession. He commenced his military career with the Cameron Highlanders of Winnipeg, serving three years with that regiment. In April, 1915, he transferred to the Winnipeg Light Infantry, and subsequently joined the Canadian Expeditionary Force as Lieutenant with the 61st Overseas Battalion, and on December 1st transferred to the 101st, being appointed Company Commander.

There are thirty-five officers on the strength of the Battalion, and twenty-seven of these were appointed from the 106th Winnipeg Light Infantry. The title of "Winnipeg Light Infantry" is, consequently, no misnomer.

Most of the Platoon Commanders are officers of various experience and qualifications, several of them being natives of Winnipeg. The non-commissioned officers and men are rapidly making the 101st Battalion a credit to Winnipeg and an honor to themselves.

Apart from the strenuous duties of active service, the lighter side of a soldier's life has never been neglected in the 101st. The various companies have sports committees of their own, and these, together with the Battalion sports committee, attend to the developing and maintaining of the athletic and sporting proclivities of the entire Battalion. In the ensuing months friendly competitions will be held amongst the various companies in baseball, football and outdoor sports of a similar nature. Already distinction has been won by the Battalion hockey team, and the men of the Battalion hope to add to their laurels.

In presenting the following pages to the general public, the authors feel sure that it will find a permanent place in many a home for the sake of its associations. Here are pictures of residents of this City who have responded to the higher call, and are prepared to follow in the footsteps of those who have brought honor and glory to Winnipeg, Canada and the British Empire, in the far-away fields of St. Julien, Langemark and Festubert. In many a home in Winnipeg this little book will be emblematic of all that is best in the life and history of a nation, and to us who are about to follow, we feel with them, that

"We're the sons of sires that baffled
Crowned and mitred tyranny;—
They defied the field and scaffold
For their birthrights—SO WILL WE."

With an Overseas Battalion from Winnipeg to France

Presented by the 101st Overseas Battalion, W.L.I., C.E.F.
(LIEUT.-COL. DAN McLEAN, Commanding)

Assisted by Winnipeg Operatic Society

Under the Patronage of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, Sir Douglas Cameron

DESCRIPTIVE SYNOPSIS

The first part of the performance opens with Moving Pictures, illustrating a day with the 101st Overseas Battalion, after which the Battalion is supposed to have moved out to Camp Hughes for training during the coming summer.

The curtain rises on a camp scene in total darkness with the exception of a brazier burning in front of each tent. Suddenly in the darkness the voice of a sentry is heard, giving the "All's well" call. Day breaks over the camp, and at sunrise the "Reveille" is sounded by the bugle band of the Battalion. The usual procedure of camp life is illustrated, showing the men at their ablutions and getting ready for parade. The "Fall in" sounds. The orderly officer approaches and reads the "orders," which announce that on account of the Battalion being ordered overseas, there will be no parade that day. Cheers are given for the Colonel, and an impromptu concert takes place. Various items are carried through as detailed in the programme.

The news of the Battalion leaving Camp Hughes spreads rapidly to Winnipeg, and a bevy of ardent admirers, especially of the fairer sex, arrives at the camp on a special train to see the men off. The scene closes with the Battalion marching out to the station with its brass and bugle bands, amidst the loud cheers of the visitors and to the strains of "We'll never let the old flag fall."

The next act portrays a concert given by the Winnipeg Operatic Society to assist the wounded and procure comforts for the boys now in the trenches.

The last scene depicts the Battalion in action. The trench which is shown on the stage, with its machine guns, hand grenades, its bomb-throwers, traverses and communication trenches, gives a realistic touch to the scene. The operations are lit up by flare lights. This brings the performance to a conclusion.

Wonderful Soda

That's What They All Say

—and why wouldn't they say it? It certainly is the most wonderful soda we have ever seen, and probably the very best soda that can be produced today. That is the reason. First, purity of ingredients, then careful manipulation, then sanitary fountains and the cleanest and neatest service. That's what makes it good. That should appeal to you, and induce you to meet and treat at our fountains, now and for the balance of the season. Any flavor you want—all the old-timers and the newest ones.

Her House in Order

THE FRANTZ WAY

Thousands of households are kept clean The Frantz Way. And the expense is a trifle.

The FRANTZ PREMIER is used in America's best homes. It is the efficient electric cleaner. A few minutes' use each day keeps the household in order. Old-fashioned cleaning days, with their wearisome chaos, are but memories.

So, well-informed housewives no longer select—they DEMAND the FRANTZ PREMIER. It is as necessary as the telephone.

Visit our store today or phone for free demonstration.

As Regards Selling Grain

The most efficient way for the farmer to secure the highest returns for his grain, together with full satisfaction with the way it is handled, is to ship it by the carload to Fort William or Port Arthur, and employ a commission firm of experience and reliability on the Winnipeg market to check the inspection and weighing and attend to the selling.

We act only as agents for farmers, and have no interest in buying their grain for our own account which might tempt us to swerve from our duty to those who employ us. We handle grain for the regular commission of 1 cent per bushel on Wheat, Barley, Rye and Flax, and 5/8 cent per bushel on Oats. We advance liberal amounts at 7 per cent. interest against cars consigned to us for sale, and render clear and full statements and prompt settlements when sales have been made.

Write to us whenever information is wanted about markets and prices, etc., or advice about selling or holding.
